ARUBA'S LUXURY HOTEL OPENS SATURDAY

Planeloads of celebrities from North and South America converged on Aruba late this week for the grand opening Saturday of the luxurious Aruba Caribbean Hotel. Guests of the hotel will include top government and industry figures from Venezuela and a large representation from New York, including a host of newsmen coming specially to cover the event.

Entertainment for the hotel's guests will be headed by singer Hildegarde, long famous in New York's supper clubs. The weekend activities will be rounded off Sunday evening with folklore dancing at Wilhelmina Stadium by a group of over 30 dancers flown in for the occasion from Venezuela. The latter event is free and open to the public.

The hotel, several years in construction, represents an outstanding achievement in luxury and in unusual eye-pleasing architecture, and is expected to put Aruba solidly on the tourist map.
